

Storytelling Is More Than Communication

Organizations often come to me when they are experiencing questions like:

- * How do we communicate research so communities understand and trust it?
- * How do we create authentic engagement rather than just another marketing campaign?
- * How do we help leaders become better storytellers?
- * How do we strengthen culture across departments?
- * How do we honor community stories without exploiting them?
- * How do we create memorable events that people continue talking about long after they end?

Storytelling isn't simply a presentation skill.

It's organizational infrastructure.
