(CREATIVE PLACEMAKING/PLAYMAKING) “Re-Storying History: Place, People, Movement & Memory”

What if history wasn't just something we remembered but reshaped and reformed simply by dressing it in a renewed story?

There are movements and memories of people who navigated those moments that deserve to live forever. But how do you take those historical narratives and turn them into something compelling, something that resonates with a contemporary audience?

Enter "Re-Storying History: People, Place, Movement & Memory."

This workshop is for storytellers, visionaries, and cultural custodians who want to honor the past creatively.

Does an unsung hero inspire you? Is there a place brimming with forgotten history or a movement that changed your life? If so, in this workshop, you'll learn how to:

- ✓ Shape your story with emotional depth and narrative clarity
- ✓ Translate memory into a compelling, immersive experience
- ✓ Preserve truth while making it accessible and engaging

- ✓ Explore creative techniques to honor history without making it feel like a textbook

If you've ever struggled to package an important story in a way that moves people—this is your space. Let's breathe new life into history together.
